Giant Largemouth & Smallmouth Bass

Whisperwood delivers, again!

I do remember when reports of a 5 pound bass got people's attention and the ever elusive 6 & 7 pounders were only caught by mystical, shadowy figures of legend. Today however, after another incredible year of big bass catching at Whisperwood by so many different people, I can say without reservation that Salmon and McGrath Lakes are 2 of the best big bass lakes in New England. Now as we head into September, another outstanding month for Big Bass, it's your last chance to try and catch and photograph a trophy bass for the 2009 season at Whisperwood. Off season rates apply and cabins are still available, so if you are thinking about doing some September fishing and or just relaxing, come visit us and enjoy Doug & Candee's Maine hospitality and book your reservations early.

Last September plenty of big bass were caught and if you don't think CATCH & RELEASE works, Salmon & McGrath lakes are shining examples of what can happen when these beautiful fish are released back to the lake to breed again.

A special thanks to Rob & Lauren (first time visitors) for taking such outstanding photos of the wildlife in and around Whisperwood. Anyone who has never seen closeups of our very special lake residents, please take a look at this slideshow at: http://www.whisperwoodlodge.com/rob\_lauren\_2009.html

Keep checking our webpage at: <http://www.whisperwoodlodge.com/> and look in on our Big Bass page at: http://www.whisperwoodlodge.com/big\_bass.htm for each month. You can follow and view the great catches here at Whisperwood and our webpage also has plenty of information about other fun and interesting things to do in our area.

We are starting a page of guests comments & photos, so if you would like to share your comments or interesting stories about your stay at Whisperwood please email Mike@Whisperwoodlodge.com

We hope you consider Whisperwood for your September destination.

Thank you & your hosts,
